9:20	10:20	Weather Wise: Managing Weather on America's Great Loop Weather is one of the most critical factors in successfully completing America's Great Loop. In this session, we'll break down how weather truly impacts safety, comfort, timelines, and decision-making while cruising the Loop. We'll cover why weather planning matters beyond just "checking the forecast," what key factors to monitor daily, how to plan ahead and how to recognize when staying put is the smartest move. The session will also explore commonly used weather tools and platforms among Loopers—what they do well, where they fall short, and how to combine multiple sources	Kevin & Edie Williams for better situational awareness. Whether you are preparing for your first Loop or refining your approach after time on the water, you'll leave with a clearer framework for making confident, weather-smart decisions underway. Practical, real-world focused, and Looper-tested—this session is designed to help you cruise safer, calmer, and with fewer surprises.
